

I feel honored that this is my first comment. All of my hard work and dedication have finally paid off. Getting top comments has been a dream of mine for many years, and I thank those who have helped along the way. Next, I'd like to thank my parents, my best friend Amy, and my cat Tommy for being there for me. I'm grateful to my tadpole for enduring all of the ads for a week. Next, I want to thank my squirrel, who lives in my backyard and is always climbing trees; he gives me the inspiration I need to get through the day. These are my memorable moments, and I would like to thank any unmentioned friends and family who helped me along the way. This moment is one that I will never forget. Just remember a few other people I like to thank: Facebook, the fish that I caught in the third grade, my lighting room because without it, I won't be able to see the keyboard, the internet that lets me be on Facebook, my house because without it, I would be homeless, and last but not least, I would like to thank all the people out there who take time out of their day to read this. I cannot say how much of a big deal this is. I have been trying to be their first comment on a post for a year, but that was only possible on a fantastic day. Hopefully, my good fortune will continue, but this is a rare occasion. If you know how I did this, you can achieve anything you want. To all the kids who are reading this, I want to follow their dream. Being the top comment is fantastic. Thank you, everyone.